coolant. Coolant was very dirty. Drained hydraulic fluid because it was leaking hydraulic fluid as well. After draining coolant , disconnected coolant lines and hoses. Removed shroud so it would be easier to remove engine. Unbolted engine mounts and pulled engine out. Sat engine on engine stand and removed parts that were going to get reused on new engine. Removed starter from old engine and installed on new engine. Removed fly wheel off of old engine and installed on new engine with new fly wheel bolts. Installed new engine damper on flywheel. Installed 2 new belt tensioners on new engine because old tensioners were dry and can hear bearings going out. Installed new belts. Removed coolant reservoir because it was cracked so ordered a new reservoir and installed it. Fan was all ding up and bent. Ordered a new fan and installed it. New engine came in without some sensors , so we used some of the old ones. Coolant hardline that goes to cab was stripped . Ordered new coolant hardline and installed it. Ordered new motor mounts and installed them. Installed engine in frame and bolted it down. Connected everything back in place and torque down everything that needed to get torqued to spec. Added engine oil to engine. Added new coolant. Re installed hydraulic tank and added new hydraulic fluid. Cranked engine and she started right up. Tried adjusting clutch and gear linkages. Display says 930 hours
