Low Fuel Pressure

CONDITION:

 Diagnose and repair engine wont start.
 ECU 157.17, low rail pressure.

CAUSE:

 Water ingress in fuel supply caused damage and rust to common rail fuel system components.
 Especially the high pressure pump, causing no rail pressure and engine not starting.

CORRECTION:

 Travel to machine and identify reported fault.
 Connected laptop to machine and checked for codes.
 Found water in fuel code and low rail pressure code.
 Drained water separator and found excessive water in filters.
 Attempted to drain water out of fuel tank.
 Fitted new fuel filters and primed fuel system.
 Attempted to start machine but machine would not start.
 Checked water separator and found water contamination again.
 Drained water and primed fuel system.
 Checked operation of low pressure fuel pump and found to be on the low side of pressure supplied to high pressure fuel pump.

Reserve put on job:

Has machine been checked for software and pips:

Special notes: Ned has traced wiring for both sensors back into harness and has noted damaged wiring at bulkhead connector. Codes read similar and could possibly be related on same reference circuit.

REPAIR:

* Inspected customer complaint of machine generating codes for hydraulic oil level sensor and rear hitch height sensor circuit faults

* Started machine and codes were inactive

* Tested operation of hitch, all good

* Inspected hydraulic oil level, within spec

* Visually inspected wiring. Found three bare wires on RH side, rear of machine

* Repaired exposed wiring

- * Started machine and checked for code return, all good
- * Later returned to machine for same fault codes
- * Followed service advisor diagnostics
- * Tested for 5-volt supply at hydraulic oil level sensor. Good earth but only 0.5-volt supply
- * Tested for 5-volt supply at hitch height sensor. Good earth but only 0.5-volt supply
- * Turned key off and checked continuity on 5-volt supply wire from control unit to both sensors, all good
- * Reconnected control unit and sensors
- * Disconnected bulkhead connector underneath cab which supplies only the hitch circuit and SCVS
- * Turned key on and tested supply voltage to oil level sensor. Now have 5 volts
- * Inspected what else was in that circuit and found both sensors share 5-volt supply with the hitch draft sensor located on the bottom of the machine
- * Reconnected bulkhead connector and then removed the cover housing the draft sensor
- * Unplugged draft sensor and turned key on. Found I now have 5-volt supply to hitch height sensor which indicates a faulty draft sensor taking away the 5-volt supply from entire circuit
- * Returned to workshop and ordered new draft sensor
- * Returned to machine the next day and installed the new draft sensor
- * Cleaned out cavity and reinstalled cover
- * Tested operation, all good
- * Tidied up all wiring and reinstalled all covers
- * Tested operation of hitch and checked for code return.
